Book Description

A heartfelt YA portal fantasy where grief forges courage, friendships are tested, and every choice could shatter worlds.

Selene never meant to break reality. She just wanted to save her mother's shop and maybe hear her late father's voice one more time. When her séance goes horribly wrong, it hurls her, her friends, and her infuriating ex-boyfriend straight into Elvaturia, a realm of light doors, moon goddesses, and dragons that shouldn't exist.

Stranded in a world they were never meant to enter, they cross paths with the mysterious Prince Zeelith, whose father, King Agnor, has vanished without a trace. As Selene joins the search, she is drawn deeper into ancient secrets, glowing mana curios, magical glyphs, and deadly creatures standing between her and the path home.

As she faces her grief, a budding romance, and the true cost of saving the people she loves, Selene learns a harsh lesson. Not everyone can be saved!
